

Sacred space is “an absolute necessity
for anybody today.”

—— Joseph Campbell

In the 1988 PBS documentary
“Joseph Campbell and the Power of Myth.”

the famous mythologist shares how most religions
ask believers to make sacred time and space.

It sounds like he’s giving advice to a 2020s workaholic with social media and three side gigs.

So if that’s you sometimes, read on.

“Most of our action is economically or socially determined.”

— Joseph Campbell

“The claims of the environment upon you are so great that ...you’re always doing something that is required of you.”

— Joseph Campbell

“You hardly know ...
What is it you intended?”

“You must have a room, or a certain
hour or a day ...
where you do not know what was in the newspapers that morning.”

— Joseph Campbell

“Where you don’t know what you owe to
anybody,
you don’t know what
anybody owes to you.”

— Joseph Campbell

A place where you can simply experience and bring forth what you are, and what you might be.

This is the place of creative incubation.

— Joseph Campbell

In other words...

The world isn't slowing down.
It's not going to tell you there's nothing to do.
We're surrounded by to-do lists, calendar
reminders, and notifications.

There's always another video to watch,
headline to read,
task to accomplish.

We need sacred time.

A sabbath day, a dedicated hour, or an intentional break.

We need sacred space.

A temple, a synagogue, a church, a mosque, a closet, a trail, a starlit field.

A serene sunset scene over a lake. The sun is low on the right side, creating a bright, shimmering reflection on the water. In the foreground, a person is sitting on a wooden dock, fishing. In the middle ground, a small boat with a person is visible on the water. The background shows a dense line of trees under a hazy, golden sky. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

A time and place
to be still.

Can you take 2 minutes
to schedule
it now?
